* His * Courtship.

By HELEN E. MARTIN.

Author of "Tilly: A Mountain Girl."

Copyright, 1911, by McChesney, Phillips &amp; Co.

The problem solved itself by his accidentally touching the headboard at this moment with his elbow. Instantly he thought to reassure her by quiet speaking her name without abruptness.

"Eunice, it is only I. Don't be alarmed."

He stepped out into sight as he spoke. She turned to him quickly, and smiling with alarm, her eyes wide and startled, her cheeks white.

He spoke again in a matter of fact way, calculated to disarm her fear.

"I'm very sorry I frightened you. I came here to meet the ghost. Are you fit?" he smiled.

"She turned quickly, clutching the bed. "I thought," she breathed, "that you were it."

At the sound of her own voice she started to recover herself. Her smile brightened her face, and her eyes were brilliant. He saw almost with amusement that she found no cause for alarm or displeasure at his presence.

He drew an old dusty chair to the bed and sat down before her, folding his arms.

She leaned comfortably against the foot of the bed. Evidently she saw no objection to a midnight chat with him. She seemed to him in her languid acceptance of his invitation an ignorence of evil in an angel.

There seemed so much that he wanted to ask her that he hardly knew where to begin. But with a trifles less than her usual timidity before him she took the initiative.

"You know, in a room when I came in, wasn't you?" she asked, her eyes wide with wonder.

"Yes—in quest of the ghost."

"But the room was dark."

He pointed to his lamp on the bookshelf. "Yes, but when I heard you coming, thinking I was going to encounter the spectre."

"You didn't know, did you, that you would—would that you here tonight?"

Again that note of wistfulness with which he was beginning to grow familiar.

"No more expected it than I expected to meet the ghost of Russia."

She appeared so disappointed to hear that he hastened to add, "It's the most delightful surprise ever!"

"My life!" she said, her eyes beaming upon him frankly. "You are pleased?"

Evidently she wanted him to repeat it.

"To say I am 'pleased' would be false. I am overjoyed."

He was much entertained at her venture to put him through a catechism.

"How can you ask when for four days you have made it impossible for me to have three minutes' talk with you?"

"You have wanted to talk with me?"

Her eyes were not mournful now, but luminous with happiness.

"Haven't you wanted to talk to me?" he inquired.

"Oh!" she breathed, as though her feelings were too deep for utterance.

Being a mere man, he found himself quite unable to interpret her.

"Much good it does me to want to talk to you," he said ruefully, "when I have to search you out in a haunted room in midnight darkness to do it."

"Why do you mean to make it difficult? Oh, no, indeed. But you know I am kept very closely at work."

"I know! But why haven't you come out to me in the evenings—to the guest house or to the terrace by the gate?"

"I think," she said, her color deepening and her eyes falling, "it wouldn't have been—mildly."

"Well, then, at least you might be away somewhere where I could come to you."

"Also keeps a jacket upon whom," she said without looking up.

"Abe? Abe was hanged!"

"And them," she added, her head sinking lower and lower. "I would not mind if you were married when all your mind must be occupied with—the girl you said you loved."

"What?" he asked, puzzled. "You refer to the stately Georgiana?"

"I laughed. "Georgiana also—he-bisected. I should say, tell me, Eunice, that you are young. I have known since I last talked with you has been to go with that talk."

"Let us go with it now," she said, a deep contentment radiating from her eyes.

"All right." He relaxed and leaned back more comfortably in his own chair, resting his forehead on his fingers and looking as complacently satisfied as she did.

"The first time she said timidly, "I could not be a virgin of you."

"Yes, Eunice."

"Will you not betray to Mr. or Mrs. Morningside that you saw me here?"

"Why don't you wish then to know?" he asked, feeling her complexion disturbed by her apparent concern.

"They would be very angry."

"Why need you care for that?"

"But they would stop my coming in the future. I have kept them from knowing."

"These many years? You have been in the habit of coming to this room?"

"Every night for many years."

"Aha!" he exclaimed. "Then you are the ghost! The flickering light seen at the windows by passersby is your candle."

"What did you come for?"

He sat upright in his chair. "For many years you have been reading the books in this room?"

"I have stared at her for an instant spellbound with astonishment. Then he sank back in his chair, fitting together the tips of his fingers, a habit of his when trying to think things out. "I see," he said slowly. "I see." He asked another question abruptly.

"What would the Morningsides stop it if they knew?"

"They would think it made me less strong to work for them—staying up at night. You will not tell them?"

"Of course I shall not tell—that goes without saying, child." But he asked curiously, "were you never afraid to come here knowing the place was haunted?"

"I was not to be wondered at that idea were they that fantastic, he thought. The effect of the atmosphere on one who lived a life as remote from the world as a nun's and whose mind was left undisturbed by any other mental exercise was so curious as to be almost phenomenal.

"Do you know how soon you can get to the station?"

"Probably the next time we can be alone together. And don't let it be a week from now. When and where shall we meet?"

"In this room tomorrow night?" she suggested.

"Can you come to me on the terrace?" he proposed, quite unwilling to expose her to the scandal which must arise if they were found alone in this chamber in the small hours of the night?

"We would not be interrupted or in any way disturbed here. On the terrace we might be seen at all times."

"She stopped short as though to ward off an anathema upon Abe.

But Kinslow realized that perhaps she was right. They rarely or never had been so innocent of any impropriety in her proposal that he would no more have suggested it to her than he would have offered poison to a babe.

"You know," she added, "they all have great fear of this part of the world."

"So the terrace?" she said with a restrained eagerness, "with any secret I had—I would trust you to—to the utmost?"

"Thank you, Eunice," he answered gravely, "an odd feeling of pleasure about it."

He got himself up and leaned toward the bookcase, examining in the light of his new knowledge their titles.

"So then it has been your secret reading that has made of you such an anomaly in the mind of the world, but never of them, your real life has been spent in the world of fiction and history and poetry. Yes?" he nodded. "I begin to see daylight now."

As a psychologist he felt an almost tingling excitement as he came to be associated with her peculiar mental equipment of a really extensive knowledge of literature combined with an absolute ignorance of actual life and the affectual and emotional side of human nature left unexplored.

"I will tell you," he timidly urged,

"what you have been told the story of this room? I know there is a story connected with it, but it has always been kept from me."

Athens Kinslow was silent.

"You may know that a girl should be innocent from all knowledge of evil, yet he had an instinctive aversion to pouring into the ears of this childlike madded the story of the crime which she was right." They rarely or never had been so innocent of any impropriety in this room."

"I must meet her here, then, tomorrow night, and I will tell you what I can."

He was conscious of the fact that in the course of their talk had seemed to him that she had been led out of the room like a drooping wild rose reviving under a soft rain.

"Do you know, Eunice? It isn't true what you told me the other night—that you 'have no education.' You have read and, I have reason to believe, assimilated the best of English letters."

"Call me educated?" she asked, with interest.

"Technically—an educated person is no doubt one who knows the multiplication tables. I am not sure that you do."

She shook her head sadly. "No," she humbly acknowledged. "And I can't spell either."

"Your education is dreadfully one-sided," he said. "It is in your specialties. This is the case in your specialties. I believe that your knowledge of English at least is rather thorough."

"Would it serve me in supporting myself?" she eagerly asked.

"Surely. The wonder to me is that you have thought that I could not learn to read those Bibles."

She looked at him dumbfounded.

"You never even glanced into them?"

"Long ago I used to take one down occasionally and with I could read it."

"I would be surprised if you had missed this 'confession' in his pocket?"

That remained to be seen, and he was eager to be alone in his room to read it. He felt a reluctance to bring this interesting tête-à-tête to an end, but he had the secret in his pocket. He rose from his chair.

"It's getting awfully late, Eunice."

"I'd better go now. Will you meet her tomorrow night then? At what time?"

"I can't tell you," she said, "as Ollie has written to me late tonight, and it made me late. She is usually quiet by half past 8 at the latest."

"I shall be waiting for you at that time. And now I think you'd better get some rest and not stop here to read from the book."

He held out his hand to her. "Good night."

Without rising from the bed she laid her slim fingers in his, and clapped them for an instant as he looked down into her eyes. "I will be back to you in the morning," he said, "and bring some in her passionate gaze."

It Was Dizzy Spells Gave the Warning

Fainting Also Alarmed Her—New Strength and Energy Are Restored by DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Pain is often a blessing in disguise. For when you suffer you get in earnest about a cure.

Many who are in a really serious condition from nervous exhaustion do not realize there is danger because they have no pain.

They are weak and easily fatigued, the digestive system lacks the necessary vigor, the appetite appears poor and interest in life seems to wane. Some even have dizzy spells and fainting spells, as had the writer at the letter which follows realizing the danger they are in.

To such heart failure or some form of paralysis is liable to come at any moment.

Why not take definite action today so that restoration may begin at once. You can get Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at almost any store where medicine is sold and can be sure that every dose brings you so much nearer to health and vigor.

Mrs. Edwin Martin, Ayer's Cliff, Ga., writes: "Before I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I was in a terrible condition, dizzy spells would come over me and I would fall to the floor. Now, after fainting, my nervous system was all right again."

"Doctors failed to help me so I turned to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I soon found it was just the kind to meet my needs. I could feel that by restoring my system: I can now wash and do the housework without difficulty, and give all the credit for the cure to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

The genuine Dr. Chase's Nerve Food bears portrait and signature of book author: 50 cents a box. All dealers or Edmaston, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

SMUGGLING TALES.

Stories of the Invasion of the Officers at the Boundary.

The higher a dam is raised, increasing the quantity of water held back, the greater the liability of the water to overcome the obstruction either by sweeping it away or by cutting out its custodians.

A tariff is a sort of dam to the natural current of commerce which would flow in upon a country were it not held back or at least obstructed by customs.

Smuggling is the leakage around the tariff dam; and as with the water, so with trade; the more that is held out, the greater its effort to break through.

For example, the duty on tobacco was considerably increased a few years ago, it was stated in the House of Commons by members representing the border country, so far as the border country was concerned, the demand for tobacco would be increased by means of smuggling.

It was also stated that in the contraband trade either to supply individual needs, or for the purpose of making a profit.

All this is true, but especially the frontier bordering on the States of New York and Vermont, which has long been settled and where Canadian goods are easily separated by only an imaginary line indicated by iron posts, set by the roadside at points where the highways cross, and which is wrapped up with the local history many a winding yarn.

Some of us may be worth giving just for the sake of old times—for of course there is no smuggling to-day (?)

On one occasion an officer seized an American who was on which no duties had been paid, at a village about ten miles distant from his office.

The seizure was made in the evening, and he decided to wait until the night at the village tavern, and in the morning tow the busy home to bind his own rig. Finding no place to sleep, he lay down in a doorway over night under lock and key (probably because none of the village people wished to assist him), he had to remain there until the morning.

He was then taken to the court, and it was decided to let him go at the village tavern, and in the morning tow the busy home to bind his own rig. Finding no place to sleep, he lay down in a doorway over night under lock and key (probably because none of the village people wished to assist him), he had to remain there until the morning.

After spending the evening in the bar-room where he remained pretty freely, he went to his room.

Just as he was about to get into bed an idea entered his ratherุด头脑中. He would tie a cord around his ankle so fastening the cord around one ankle. This done, he turned in and was soon fast asleep.

The next morning the busy home was awakened out of bed across the floor, and almost out of the window, when the cord broke.

During the night he came to the window with a harness and rope, and jumped into the vehicle and drove smartly off. The cord suddenly tightened, the sleeping officer's ankle was dragged out of bed across the floor, and almost out of the window, when the cord broke.

A few years ago there was seized at St. John's a considerable quantity of American bacon and dried beans.

The officers rightly suspected that the goods had been brought in by a farmer whose home was in the eastern part of Newfoundland, about a couple of miles from Arburgh, Vermont.

This farmer was a tramp, earning a living by his occupation, being the buying of fat cattle and hogs from his neighbors throughout the parish, butchering them and carrying the meat to market.

Occasionally he picked up a part of his load from his neighbors in Arburgh, Vt., which he visited after sunup and again before sunset, at that time was not very good.

Mingled with the meat, his load of bacon, was a large box of American soap for the poor customers in St. John's. The profit on this portion of his freight was hand-some.

It Is Banished by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Because They Make Good Blood.

Ask any doctor and he will tell you that eczema is caused by impurities in the blood; that nothing can cure it but removing those impurities and that outward applications are worthless. That is the reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have always so successfully treated eczema, banishing those eruptions and pimples, reducing the irritation and itching, giving perfect health. They have cured thousands of cases where poor blood has resulted in disease. Those who have cured are Mrs. James Wilkins, Mrs. C. O. Wright, etc. etc. etc.

They say: "I suffered a good deal with eczema and did not get anything to help me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These free my blood of all impurities and gave me my beauty back, am, therefore, naturally very pleased."

A medicine that can make the blood will cure eczema, rheumatism, eczema, neuralgia, indigestion, heat palpitation, the ill of girlhood, heart trouble, and many other troubles—simply because these troubles are the result of bad blood.

They say: "why they always cure the above troubles and bring back the health to pale cheeks. Sold by all medicine dealers or direct at 50 cents per box for six boxes for $2.50, Canada.

The emigration authorities in Rome have been for some time studying the problem of encouraging emigration to Canada. With this object in view, recently made to discover how many Italians emigrated to the Dominion. At the present time the total number of foreign immigrants yearly entering Canada do not afford any indication regarding the nationality of the immigrants.

On the other hand, the Canadian government places immigrants in two categories—English-speaking and non-English-speaking.

The former average about 75 per cent. of the total.

The Italian immigrants is very low.

A majority of the Italians come to Canada, however, pass through the United States, and are very often included in the category of English-speaking.

So far as the Italian authorities are concerned, there were 10,900 in 1909 about 37,000 Italians emigrated to Canada. By comparing these figures with those of the last census in 1901, the rate of increase among the Italian immigrants to Canada is very slow.

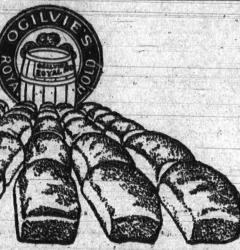

Beginning to look as though the whole world is confronted with a long period of bad scarcity—Toronto World.

Crop Outlook Good

New comers to the prairie having been unduly elated during the exceptionally early spring, are now showing some tendency to go to the other extreme because of the need for rain at present evident.

Old timers are well aware that an exceptionally warm and early spring is likely to mean a set back later on. They are also aware of the extraordinary capacity of the prairie soil to endure a more or less prolonged dry spell and still produce a good crop.

The season of 1889 was very closely similar to that of the present year up to date. In March—frequently a regular winter month—the trees that began to bud in Winnipeg, and summer weather prevailed for several weeks. This was followed by a long, cold, dry spring. About the beginning of June predictions of a crop failure were general. Farmers began ploughing the fields that they had sown. Then came rain and warm weather. The fields revived like magic. In many districts the crop when it came to be harvested was well above the average. In practically all, the sample of grain was remarkable for its quality.

Today the area under cultivation is so wide that it is impossible to speak of crop conditions as a unit. In a large part of the prairie the supply of moisture has been sufficient. In southern Alberta and in southwestern Saskatchewan this seems not to be the case. But the season is young yet and there is ample time for a very profitable harvest, even here.

The thorough farmer will get the benefit of his thoroughness. Dry land farming has been a little neglected of late in some quarters. Seasons in Southern Alberta have been such that the ordinary methods have been insufficient and the extra cultivation involved in "dry land farming" has seemed superfluous. But it is a form of crop insurance, and that is something that no farmer should go without if it can be obtained by any means within reason.

Thought 'Twas Comet

In a female mixup on Carruther Street, South Fork, on Tuesday night, two old ladies came into a real out-and-out tongue and fist encounter. The row started over the appearance of a light near the Crow's Nest peak, which Mrs. Kitagamian alleged was the head of Halley's comet taking a midnight rest, but Mrs. French said she knew it wasn't, for Mr. Lawey had reported its appearance in the eastern sky the night previous. Words got intermixed and arms and legs got intermixed in the scuffle which took place over the simple object of a searchlight used by the Coleman Poultry Breeders in quest of their "chickens."

Mr. Dooley on Capital and Labor.

"It was different when I was a young man, Jimmisy. In thin days a capital labor was friendly, or labor was. Capital was like father to labor, givin' it's board and lodgin'. Neither inherered with th' other. Capital went on capitalistin' an' labor went on laborin'. In thin golden days a worruuk man was an honest artisan. That's what he was proud to be called. Th' week before Illusion he had his pitcher in the funny papers. He wore a square cap an' a leather apron, an' had his arm arround capital—a rosy binwield of guy with a ping hat and eye-glasses. They were going to the polls together to vote for simple ol' capital. Capital an' labor walked ar-zum an' ar-zum instead of havin' both hands free, as at present. Capital was content to be capital, an' labor was used to bein' labor. Capital comes ar-round an' felt the ar-zum it takes wantin' a while an' ivy year. Mrs. Capital cal'd on Mrs. Labor an' congratulated her on her score. Th' pride ivy artisan was to worruuk as long at his task as th' boss could afford to pay th' gas bill. In return fur his fidelity he got a turkey ivy year. At Christmas time, Capital gathered his happy family round him, an' th' prisins in th' ladies ivy th' neigborhood give him a short oration, 'Me brave laads,' says he, 'we've had a good year. (Cheers.) I have made a million dollars.' (Sensation.) I attribute this to me superoyer skil, aided by ye'r arrest efforts at th' bench an' th' forge. (Sobs.) Ye have done so well that we don't need to speak of crop conditions as a unit. In a large part of the prairie the supply of moisture has been sufficient. In southern Alberta and in southwestern Saskatchewan this seems not to be the case. But the season is young yet and there is ample time for a very profitable harvest, even here.

The thorough farmer will get the benefit of his thoroughness. Dry land farming has been a little neglected of late in some quarters. Seasons in Southern Alberta have been such that the ordinary methods have been insufficient and the extra cultivation involved in "dry land farming" has seemed superfluous. But it is a form of crop insurance, and that is something that no farmer should go without if it can be obtained by any means within reason.

A very pleasant social gathering was held in the parish room of St. Chad's church, Lundbreck, on the evening of May 13th, to welcome the Rev. W. H. Simpson, M.A., who recently arrived from the Old Country to take charge of Rev. W. H. Mowat's work during his absence on a vacation to England to visit relatives and friends. A pleasant feature of the evening's entertainment was the presentation of an address, and a purse of money to the Rev. Mr. Mowat from his many friends in Lundbreck, Gillingham and Livingston who appreciate the good work that Mr. Mowat has done in this district.

As a slight token of the very high esteem in which we hold you, we pray you to accept this purse, and our prayer is that, after sojourning with your people for a time, you will return to us greatly invigorated and strong in the belief that your labors for the Master have not been in vain, and more

California Oil Fields

Vancouver, May 10.—The Consolidated Oil Fields of California, Limited, an English Syndicate, with offices at Albion House, 91 Oxford Street, London, has purchased the entire holdings of the Ramona and Bonita Oil Companies, California, and intend developing the entire holdings of these Companies on a large scale, and to commence drilling at once.

It is learned on consulting commercial authorities that the new company is the off-spring of one of England's foremost corporations, to-wit: The International Land & Industry Company, Ltd., of London, England, which is heavily capitalized.

The news was made public in the San Francisco papers several days ago that British capital is investing heavily in the California Oil Fields, and the fact that over $20,000,000 of English coin was invested there.

The absorption of the greater portion of the dividend-paying petroleum plants of this state, by financially strong managers, and the prospect that the system of marketing and producing will be carried on along conservative lines, will lend stability to the oil business, and will, to a great extent, place it among industrial rather than speculative enterprises.

The Californians who have become enriched by this accession of foreign capital, will invest their profits in new petroleum fields to develop thoroughly the vast areas of the oil deposit along the coast ranges.

Address and Presentation

Lundbreck, Alta.
Rev. W. H. Mowat, M. A.

Dear Mr. Mowat:

It accord with the announcement made some time ago, we are now on the eve of your departure for your home land beyond the sea to once more unite with friends and comrades from whom you separated a few years ago.

I endeavored to let you know that would be a most opportune time to express our gratitude to Almighty God for his goodness in directing you to this field of labor.

When you landed, here some three years or more ago, a stranger in a strange land, you faced difficulties that seemed insurmountable, yet your untiring energy and zeal for your Master has crowned your labors with success.

Since coming amongst us you have not only erected, or caused to be erected, a church to the worship of Almighty God in Lundbreck and another one in Cowley, but you have ministered to those of those in the outlying districts of this western frontier.

The people of Lundbreck, Gillingham and Livingston deeply appreciate your efforts on their behalf, and it would be ungrateful on our part did we not acknowledge the great help you have been to us.

As a slight token of the very high esteem in which we hold you, we pray you to accept this purse, and our prayer is that, after sojourning with your people for a time, you will return to us greatly invigorated and strong in the belief that your labors for the Master have not been in vain, and more

FORTUNES IN CALIFORNIA OIL

One Good Investment Worth A Lifetime Of Labor.

Here Is An Opportunity For The Man Of Small Means.

This advertising announcement is especially directed to such readers of this paper as are honestly interested in their future; men and women who are acting altogether for to day, but who have before them a definite and fixed purpose, and so shape their destiny each day, by word and deed, so that at some date not far in the future they may be able to achieve the crowning event of their lives.

It is only human that we should each desire to have in our own name much of this world's goods sufficient at least to provide for comfort and independence during our old age. It is quite true that to a many live after this position in the days of their youth.

Are you satisfied with your future prospects?

Are you saving now, will save a few months or five years time you will have a great fortune?

Could you, if you invested right now, that in the next 18 months you will have practically made or saved from the investments which you are making to day sufficient funds to provide for you and family, a comfortable living for ten years time?

Millions from a Few Dollars in Oil.

Champlin and Canfield were both poor prospectors. Realizing the great possibilities and future of the California oilfields, they placed their savings in the oil industry and are to day rated as millionaires.

Zed Phillips, four years ago last September, alkited from the team in the Coalinga field, and was the passenger of $23. The moneys "23" did not distract him; he was the proud owner of a million dollars' worth of grit, nerve and energy. He worked hard, saved his money, and did things. He invested his earnings in the oil fields and as a result he is now worth a quarter of a billion dollars.

Many others are becoming millionaires through oil investments.

Donald O'Donnell, Champlin, Hardison, Stewart and thousands of others who through small investments in the great oil industry of California became men of wealth.

Don't Sigh and Regret--Do Something.

We often look back and think to ourselves that had our foresight been as good as our hindsight, we would have done differently. This looking-back to disappointments that have passed is particularly interesting in connection with the California oil fields.

Others Have Made Money in Oil--Why Not You?

The following is a list of "I.Y.S." that are opening investors' eyes to the possibilities of California oil shares:

If you had invested $100 at ground floor prices in--	$ 600

Contract Oil.    "                 "	15,000

If you had purchased Pine Oil shares at 25c. per share, you could have sold at $25 per share; it pays a regular monthly dividend of 10c. per share--a monthly income of $60 on an original investment of $100.

When the "Silver Tip" well in the Coalinga oil fields came in, this stock jumped up in a night from 60c. to $4 and has been paying a dividend of 10c. per share ever since. This is recent history, having occurred but a short time ago.

You have the same opportunities to day in the Coalinga oil fields and plenty of them, but you must think, reason and analyze for yourself before you can hope to acquire your share of the world's wealth, you must have the courage of your own convictions and act.

Advantages of Investments in Oil Sécurities.

It is stated by the best of oil authorities that 96 per cent of the wells drilled in the provinces of the California Field produce oil. You must therefore realize that the element of risk in oil investments is practically eliminated. Furthermore placing your money in oil companies means quick, and in most cases, large returns, particularly so in cases where the Companies are operating in shallow water, which requires inexpensive drilling and quick action on the part of the operators.

Crude oil at the present market price is being purchased from the producer at sixty three cents per barrel at the well. Mr. Aubrey, Califorla State Mineralogist, states that oil at $1 per barrel is cheaper fuel than coal. Two and a half barrels of oil are equal to an equivalent of coal to 30 tons of oil at a dollar a barrel or $30.00. The equivalent cost of oil is $10.00.

Taking the federal geological figures as a basis for calculation, there is at present in the Coalinga Districts oil worth $2,000,000,000. The great Comstock mines produced only $645,000,000.

The Property of the Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company Close to great Custer Well

The holdings of the Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company, consists of eighty acres, situated in Section 24, Township 21 South, Range 14 East, Fresno County, California, separated by only two sections from the famous Section 6, the home of the great "Silver Tip" Gusher and of the Lucile, Avay, Pacific States Oil Companies, etc., all of whom rank foremost among the big producers of this great field. Section 18, adjoining the Coalinga-Eureka property to the east of Section 24, is also held. Drilling operations have been fully completed and drilling operations are being carried on with reduced amounts. It is the undoubted opinion of experts and practical oil men that Sections 18 and 24 are destined to produce some of the most remarkable wells in the Coalinga field. E. W. Grasset, president of the best expert in the whole of the Coalinga field, and Superintendent of the Consolidated Oil Company (which adjoins our Coalinga-Eureka property) has engaged the services of the New York Engineers and Architects Oil Contractors, a leading firm, regarding the property of the Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company.

"You ask me to give an expert report on your land in Sections 24, 21 and 14. I have just returned from a very careful examination of the property. You have the same identical formation that has made the entire West side of the Coalinga field famous. You are sure to get good wells at medium depth. This property adjoins our property and I have been trying to get you to buy it. We regret that we were unable to succeed in securing it. I cannot refrain from congratulating you on securing such a desirable piece of oil land. It means success to your Company."

Plans of the Company

It is the plan of the Company to drill and complete at least four wells during the present year. These wells, according to the output of the adjacent property, should have an average yield of 400 barrels per well, or 1600 barrels per day, 48,000 barrels per month, which would enable the Company to pay dividends to the stockholders of from 3 to 5 per cent. per month besides holding in reserve a large sum of money for further development.

Stock and Disposition of Funds.

To complete later first well the Company is placing on the market a block of 50,000 shares of Treasury Stock, fully paid and non-assessable at 25c. per share; when this stock is disposed of, the price will be materially advanced.

The money received from the sale of this stock will be expended in developing the property, and not in fancy salaries. There are no salaried officials.

The following question was handed up to be answered: "Is the candidate up to date?"

Mr. Balfour was asked if he was up to date.

"Yes," replied the candidate—but possibly Mr. Balfour might not be a bachelor if he could be sure of getting rich if his wife was as easily as Henry VIII."

Want Reduction

Railways May Answer By Raising Their Freight Rates In West

Commercial interests in Western Canada are vitally concerned in the question of freight rates. At the present time the Edmonton Board of Trade is preparing to submit a petition to the Railway Commission asking for a better rate on goods coming direct from Fort William and points further east.

The Edmonton Board of Trade is not alone in making this request and it is likely that a reduction in freight rates will be asked by the boards of trade of Calgary, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Moose Jaw, and other cities.

The issue is one of long standing. Western merchants have felt that they are entitled to a reduced rate, particularly as Vancouver benefits by a much lower rate on shipments from the east than is given any interior city like Calgary, Edmonton or Lethbridge.

The grievance, if grievance there be, is assuming threatening proportions, as the Vancouver Board of Trade, not content with a lower rate, is now seeking to get a reduction on shipments from Vancouver eastwards. That would make competition uncomfortable for merchants in the prairie provinces. It is not stated by the Vancouver Board of Trade but it is generally admitted that the purpose of their request is to get a larger field of operation and, naturally, to obtain a greater share of business east of the Rocky Mountains.

As a matter of fact the Vancouver Board of Trade claims that Vancouver merchants are entitled to a rate on shipments from the coast eastwards equal to the rate prevailing in the prairie section. That the claim is made seriously is evinced by the fact that the government of British Columbia is contributing largely to the expense in making the application before the Railway Commission.

Should the Vancouver Board of Trade succeed in its contention the lines principally affected would be hardware and groceries. Other lines, such as boots and shoes, clothing and dry goods would not be materially affected. The freight on them has but a minor bearing on cost. Groceries and hardware are different. They are carried generally speaking, fifth class.

Our information is that the lake and rail route from Montreal to Calgary that class is $1.25. The rate from Vancouver to Calgary is 8 cents. The rate from Halifax to Vancouver is now 45 cents via the Trans-Canada route, and it is possible that that rate may apply from Montreal to Vancouver. Then when the famous Panama Canal is opened the rate will be not more than 25 cents per hundred.

Conditions would be somewhat changed if the Vancouver Board of Trade were to succeed before the Railway Commission, the rate on fifth class would then be:

Montreal to Calgary, lake and rail..... $1.25

Montreal to Vancouver..... 45

Vancouver to Calgary..... 55

and in this case, likewise, the completion of the Panama Canal would possibly bring about a further reduction of twenty cents a hundred.

The contention of the railway company is that a higher rate is justified because of the greater cost of operation through the mountains.

The claim of the Vancouver Board of Trade for a reduced rate on eastbound shipments is not a new one. The issue has already been discussed and strongly combatted by the C. P. R. before the Railway Commission. A similar issue, known as the Spokane case, for reduced rates on western shipments, was fought by the western railroads. In both instances the claims of the railway companies were in the main upheld.

RAILWAYS WANT TO INCREASE RATES

And now a new disturbing element has been discovered. It looms large upon the horizon of commercial life and, to business men, is of greater concern than Halley's comet to a group of philosophical astronomers. The railways want to increase freight rates.

Everybody has been debating the cost of living to find in it a reason for maintaining high prices. It is true that some have discovered in the prevalence of high prices, high freight rates and general prosperity the real cause of the high cost of life. The railway companies in the United States, however, cling to the former theory and claim that the continued agitation among railway men for more pay and shorter hours, the increased cost of material and generally, the enhanced cost of everything makes it imperative that they increase their rates.

An interesting situation will unfold itself when, on the one hand western merchants ask for reduction in freight rates and, on the other, the railways put up their rates. It would naturally follow, of course, that Canadian railways will increase their rates if American roads do so. As a matter of fact, if the latter increase their rates the Canadian roads will be forced to raise their rates to protect themselves. Suppose, for instance, that American roads increased their rates and Canadian rates were not increased. What would be the result?

Were Canadian roads to remain as they are in spite of an increase in American rates, a shipper could send his goods eastwards or westward on Canadian rails, connect with points in American territory and then pay local freight rates to connecting lines. By that means he would get a lower rate than if he had shipped over American would prove detrimental to the interests of American roads, and they would, of course, force an issue by declaring a rate war.

VANCOUVER WANTS STILL FURTHER REDUCTIONS

The Vancouver Board of Trade is also asking for a rate on oats and wheat from Calgary equal to that from Calgary to Fort William and also equal passenger rates. As a concession to Vancouver it is quite possible no opposition will be made by western boards of trade to these requests. Were they granted it would open the A. C. route for grain shipments west, and that naturally would benefit the prairie provinces as well as the coast city.—Trade Gazette.
